

Clarendons named finalist for Australian Boutique Law Firm of the Year

Friday, 31 March 2017

Clarendon Lawyers is thrilled to announce that it is a finalist in the 'Australian Boutique Law Firm of the Year' category for the prestigious Australasian Law Awards 2017.

The Australasian Law Awards celebrate excellence in the legal profession in Australia and New Zealand, by recognising leading firms and in-house teams for their outstanding achievements over the past 12 months.

Finalists are determined by representatives of the Australasian Lawyer magazine based on extensive research in the legal industry.

Managing Director, Tony Symons, said that he was delighted that Clarendons had been recognised as a finalist for the Australian Boutique Law Firm of the Year for a second year running.

"2016 was another very significant year for Clarendons. We expanded our outstanding team with multiple key hires, advised on a number of significant transactions, including many for our strong international client base, and moved into new premises at the "Paris end" of Melbourne's Collins Street.

Our key hires included new Directors Nick Golding, an Equity Capital Markets expert from Herbert Smith Freehills, Alex Bean, a Private Equity and Venture Capital expert from Herbert Smith Freehills, and Mike Steell, a Property Law expert from Gadens.

We look forward to continuing to execute our vision of becoming Australia's undisputed best boutique corporate law firm."

Winners will be announced at an awards ceremony to be held at The Star in Sydney on 18 May.
