

Clarendons named finalist for Lawyers Weekly Boutique Law Firm of the Year

Wednesday, 26 July 2017

Clarendon Lawyers is thrilled to announce that it is again a finalist in the 'Boutique Law Firm of the Year' category for the prestigious Lawyers Weekly Australian Law Awards.

The annual Lawyers Weekly Australian Law Awards recognise the best law firms in Australia. Clarendons was a finalist for the awards in 2016 and is again a finalist this year in 2017.

Finalists are determined by a high-profile judging panel nominated by the Lawyers Weekly magazine, having regard to extensive research in the legal industry.

Managing Partner Tony Symons said he was delighted that Clarendons had been recognised as a finalist for the Boutique Law Firm of the Year.

"The 2017 financial year was another very significant year for Clarendons in its growth strategy.

"We expanded our outstanding team with multiple key hires and advised on a number of significant transactions. This included advising on approximately 20 significant M&A transactions, with a total combined transaction value well in excess of A$1 billion. We also acted for issuers and lead managers on capital raisings on ASX which have raised, in aggregate, in excess of A$150 million.

"We continue to grow our profile in the Australian market as a leading Australian corporate legal advisory firm, specialising in mergers and acquisitions and equity capital markets. We look forward to continuing to execute our vision to be Australia's undisputed best boutique corporate law firm."

Winners will be announced at an awards ceremony at The Star, Sydney on 1 September 2017.
