

Clarendons advises The Sita Group on the sale of its Airport transfer business to SkyBus

Monday, 13 February 2017

Clarendon Lawyers is pleased to have advised The Sita Group on the recent sale of its Avalon Airport Transfers business to SkyBus, the operator of an award winning airport transfer service in Melbourne, Australia and Auckland, New Zealand.

The Sita Group is a family owned and operated bus transport business headquartered in Melbourne. The Sita Group operates "Sita Coaches", one of Australia's largest tourist coach services, as well as an 18-route bus service providing public transport between Melbourne and its western suburbs, through its Sita Buslines business.

The Avalon Airport Transfers business involves the provision of an airport transfers service between Avalon Airport and the Melbourne CBD, meeting all major arriving and departing flights. Following completion of the sale of this business, SkyBus now operates an Avalon City Express service from Avalon Airport to Melbourne.

The Clarendons team was led by Managing Director Tony Symons, who was assisted by Senior Associate Ken Gitahi and Lawyer Ingrid Mohr.

Mr Symons congratulated The Sita Group on the sale of the Avalon Airport Transfers business to SkyBus noting that, "the completion of this transaction is testament to The Sita Group's highly successful operation of the business since 2004. Clarendon Lawyers has had a long-standing and valued relationship with the Sita family and we are delighted to have partnered with them on this deal."

SkyBus was advised by Herbert Smith Freehills.
